

Short Bio

Konstantinos Aivaliotis | Assistant Professor (University of Aegean), Producer & Festival Director (Ethnofest)

Konstantinos Aivaliotis (PhD, MA) is Assistant Professor at the Cultural Technology and Communication department of the University of Aegean. He holds degrees in Socio-cultural and Visual Anthropology (UK, Goldsmiths College) and Anthropology of Education (France, Univ. Rouen) and his work and academic interests focus on creative and ethnographic documentary, film festivals and film markets via an interdisciplinary approach on cultural industries. He has produced two feature-length documentaries, more than ten short documentaries and directed four. From 2008 to 2016 he was programmer at the Athens International Film Festival and from 2017-2020 he served as Director of Promotion at the Greek Film Centre. In addition to his academic duties, he is the co-founder and director of the ETHNOFEST organisation and titular festival, Regional Project Manager at Thessaloniki Locarno Industry Academy and Coordinator/Tutor at Thessaloniki Agora Doc/Boost Lab.